MASTERS'S THESES & DOCTORAL DISSERTATIONS

- ON MICROFILM -

Masters' theses and doctoral dissertations in Adult and Continuing Education are an important part of the literature in this rapidly developing field. Syracuse University has regularly acquired many of the studies in microfilm form. Each of the over 700 microfilms have now been processed into the Syracuse University library system. Each one has been also listed under one or more Descriptive Subject Headings. The list is now published and is available to the students, faculty, research workers and other educators of adults. Educators of adults who find ommissions are encouraged to send them to the Compilor.

This publication relating almost entirely to the United States studies, may to some extent complement other bibliographies in the United States and in other countries.

As with most publications many persons have made substantial contributions. Mrs. Betty Jane Vaughn has participated in the project for many years and Miss Mary Henderson has been consistent in her cooperation and support. Mrs. Alice Smith has been unusually persistent and patient in examining the microfilm and otherwise preparing the copy. Mr. Metod Milac, Assistant Director for Collections, as usual was helpful in facilitating this project and in providing advice.
